

Google Quiz

Sr	Questions	Answers Choice
1	If you find yourself in a strange city and you need to know the name of a local pizza restaurant, you only need to send Google a text message, type "pizza" followed by the zip code and you will have your answer in seconds.	A. True B. False C. None of above
2	Google's "I'm Feeling Lucky" takes you the first web page returned for your query.	A. False, it takes you to a random page that Google selects. B. True C. None of above
3	What is the quickest way to find the definition of computer using Google?	A. Use the browser to go to www.dictionary.com . B. Type <code>define:computer</code> C. Type "What is a computer?" into Google
4	A user wants to search "virus" but does not want to see search results related to a computer virus. What must they type into the Google search box?	A. Type "virus, not computer" B. This is not possible to do. C. Type "virus -computer" D. Type "virus, 0 computer" E. Type "only the word virus"
5	What must you type into Google so that your exact phrase is found by Google?	A. Simply type the exact phrase you want B. Use * on either side of the phrase C. Use quotation marks on either side of the phrase D. Begin the phrase with a slash mark
6	Google has a service that enables you to get all of your voice messages emailed and/or texted to you for FREE?	A. True B. False, but they did have this at one time C. None of above
7	You want to purchase a DVD player but you only want to spend between $75-$150. What would you type into the Google search box so that it only searches within this range?	A. You cannot do this. You must go to a site that sells DVD players and do this. B. Type "DVD Players between $75 and $150" C. <code>[#]...[#]</code> is the operator for this. So you would type "DVD player $75...$150" D. <code>,</code> is the operator for this. So you would type <code>"*DVD player $75,$150"</code>
8	You do not need a calculator if you have access to Google; you simply need to know a few simple calculator operators and Google will act as a quick calculator, even raise a number to a certain power (as well as perform measurement conversions) in a flash.	A. False. You need to go to the calculator tool on your operating system. B. True C. None of above
9	You can create an attractive website on Google of your family or business for FREE. Google provides you with all of the templates and an easy 1-2-3 step process.	A. True B. False C. None of above
10	What do you type into the Google search box if you only want to search the contents of one website? Example: A high school senior only wants to access admissions info for Stanford University.	A. This is not possible to do. B. Type the following into Google: <code>admission site: www.stanford.edu</code> C. Go directly to Stanford's site and type in their search box.